The Campbell Program

Bachelor of Science: Social Science

The major in Social Science provides students with a multi-disciplinary perspective through introductions to government, history, geography, economics and sociology. Extended Campus students are afforded the opportunity to choose degree concentrations in Criminal Justice, History, Homeland Security, and Political Science. Students are to complete a specific number of credit hours in their chosen discipline. The checklist on the back of this brochure provides additional information. These degrees require 128 total semester hours for completion

While some graduates pursue degrees in law enforcement, government, law, or public administration, many will pursue jobs with private companies, government agencies, or non-profit organizations. Social Science degrees offer flexibility in designing a broad-based, liberal arts education program that fulfills the goals of each individual student.

The Extended Campus Approach

Campbell University understands that adult learners seek a balance between education, career, family and military responsibilities. The average Extended Campus student will complete 24-30 semester hours per year while attending classes only two nights per week.

Classes are scheduled during the evenings, at lunch, and on Saturday. Weekday classes meet two nights per week with two class periods each night. Campbell's Office of Distance Education offers internet courses each term which provide adult learners additional flexibility in degree completion. Additionally, most campuses have Blended courses, which meet in the classroom one night per week and have an internet component.

Students normally enroll in two classes (six semester hours) during each of the five terms offered annually. This full time schedule qualifies students for financial aid and/or VA education entitlements.

Campbell University believes that no student should be denied a college education for financial reasons. Low tuition rates at the extended campuses reflect this progressive philosophy. All students should see the financial aid representative for qualifying programs.
